

Thorne Nature Experience is seeking dedicated volunteers and interns who will support the Thorne Nature Preschool, a partial day, nature-based program launching in the Fall of 2019 that aims to both support early childhood development and foster deep nature connection. Our ideal candidate has a genuine love for young children, has a deep personal connection to nature, is comfortable outdoors in all weather, and can commit to one to four days per week (Monday-Thursday, 9am-1pm) for an entire semester (September-December; January-May) or a full school year. Thorne is looking for support with the daily operations of the preschool, including safety of children, assisting with creative activities and lessons, and being an inspirational mentor to children.

This opportunity is for you if you:

- Are inspired by our mission
- Love young children and supporting their development
- Love nature and can be outdoors in all seasons
- Are a highly relational and effective communicator
- Have a positive attitude and are able to roll with a dynamic and creative organization
- Enjoy working in a progressive, relational, collaborative, nature loving team of dedicated and talented individuals
